

Salzburg 2009: Week 3

Easter Monday is a holiday in Austria, so we held class in the dorm

A visit to Mirabellgarten for the first film project (accompanied by our resident guest lecturer)

Stammtisch: Humboldtstüb

On the set of a film project

Wednesday's tour: Festung Hohensalzburg

Getting an appreciation for how a knight in heavy armor must have felt trying to storm the fortress

Listening to the audioguides

(As you can see, the weather is beautiful. The newspapers here are proudly proclaiming how Austria is presently warmer than all the standard European vacation hotspots, such as Spain, Greece, and Morocco. It's supposed to get cool and rainy next week - let's hope it doesn't).

Thursday: a visit to a local high school to learn about the Austrian educational system. This visit was arranged by Liz A., an alumna of the 2006 program who is currently teaching in Austria with the Teaching Assistantship program sponsored by the Austrian government and the Fulbright Commission (Website: www.fulbright.at/us\_citizens/teaching\_applying.php)
